Message from Honorary Patron

Hong Kong people come from a long line of survivors and doers. What we have achieved in the past should reinforce our faith in our ability to scale the heights that beckon us in the future. This faith is shared by organizations like the Hong Kong Junior Chamber that have done so much to promote the interests and enthusiasm of young people in our city, particularly through the Ten Outstanding Young Persons Selection.

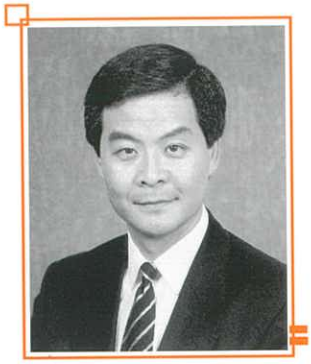

Human resources are our most valuable asset. Outstanding young people are shining examples of the true Hong Kong spirit, the driving force for transforming Hong Kong into Asia's world city. I have great pleasure in extending my congratulations to all the awardees of the Ten Outstanding Young Persons Selection 2001. They symbolise the remarkable contribution and commitment that young people from all walks of life have made to our society.

I wish them every success in the future.

I also commend the Hong Kong Junior Chamber for providing opportunities for young people to develop their leadership skills to bring about positive changes in society. By choosing 'Ignite Our Spirit for the New Millennium' as the theme for the Ten Outstanding Young Persons Selection 2001, the Chamber helps to maintain the momentum for our people to unleash their talent and efforts for the benefit of Hong Kong.

Message from Guest of Honour

Hong Kong is never short of success stories. We are never short of brilliant young people who carve success with their own hands.

At times of adversity, our young people take on and overcome challenges. They continue to grow and excel. The long list of Outstanding Young Persons in the past 30 years is the best chronicle of this great quality of Hong Kong.

The Ten Outstanding Young Persons Awards recognize some of the many achievements of our young people. Being an awardee of 1988, I am reminded of the many political and economic challenges we have faced together.

More importantly, I am reminded of how these challenges were overcome by the people of Hong Kong. Of these, we can all be proud. No matter how subtle and demanding we are, we remain confident.

The Honourable Leung Chun Ying, GBS JP
Convenor of the Executive Council

I would like to thank the members of the Chamber for organizing this annual event. They do not have an easy task, yet they work with great diligence and effort and I commend them for all their hard work to introduce Hong Kong to its Outstanding Young Persons.

The current and past awardees will continue as the role models for the younger generation, to remind and encourage the youngsters to make contribution for the betterment of our community. This echoes the mission of our organization, "to contribute to the advancement of the global community by providing the opportunity for young people to develop their leadership skills, social responsibility, entrepreneurship and fellowship necessary to create positive change".

Message from Project Chairperson

One of the purposes for the Hong Kong Junior Chamber to organize the Ten Outstanding Young Persons (TOYP) Selection since 1970, apart from giving due recognition to those who deserved the awards, is to provide opportunities for potential youngsters to strive for excellence.

In order to promote this prestigious and meaningful project to the general public, we have initiated a few pioneer attempts this year. For example, we have extensive promotion through the Official Radio Station - Metro Broadcast, multi media on-board promotion through RoadShow on buses as well as mini exhibition at MTR station. Approaching the 30th anniversary of this selection, a special TV program produced by Television Broadcasts Ltd. will be broadcast on December 18, 2001. Awards Presentation Ceremony, which is opened to the public when over 120 children aged 8-16, will participate in the performance programs in response to the JCI sub theme "Youth and Children".

In order to have the TOYP awardees take the lead to serve our community, a first-ever Community Service Day "Hand in Hand for Tomorrow" was organized to create the largest paper flower sculpture with 73,000 paper flowers in an attempt to create the Guinness World Records. Hong Kong Junior Chamber will donate all proceeds generated from this event, upon deduction of necessary expenses, to the Hong Kong Federation of Handicapped Youth for setting up their first floral workshop.

The selection this year is made possible by the support of numerous individuals and organizations. We are very honoured to have the Honourable Donald Tsang, Chief Secretary of Administration as the Honorary Patron. Gratitude should also be extended to the generosity of Shanghai Commercial Bank Ltd., which has continued to sponsor this selection for two years. We are highly appreciative of the valuable time and work of our Panel of Judges, led by our chief judge, Dr. The Honourable Rosanna Y M Wong JP, Miss Denise Yue GBS JP, Professor Arthur Li, GBS JP, Mr. Andrew Sheng, SBS JP and Mr. K.Y. Yeung, CBE JP. We also like to thank Ernst & Young for extending their resources and professional opinion to us. All these have contributed to maintaining the high standard of the annual selection.

I must also thank the Honourable Rita Fan, GBS JP as the Guest of Honour for the Community Service Day; the Honourable Leung Chun Ying, GBS JP for being the Guest of Honour at the Awards Presentation Ceremony. The support of senior government officials to this selection is an assured and formal recognition of the five deserving awardees for their achievements in professional endeavours and commitment to the community.

Taking this opportunity, I would like to give my heartfelt thanks to all personage and organizations that have rendered their support and assistance to this year's Selection. Also, I must salute to all members of the organizing committee. Their full devotion, cooperation and determination to excel have generated positive and encouraging feedbacks within the Junior Chamber and the community at large. My warm appreciation also goes to Supervising Officer Justin Lui, Project Advisors Connia Chu Lo and Emily Au Yeung for their advice.

I myself as the chief coordinator of the project, in fact, learn a lot through bonding all these sources together to make this Selection possible. I share the enthusiasm of all the awardees, which indeed reconfirm my belief that "service to humanity is the best work of life".

I send my warmest congratulations to the five awardees. I strongly believe that they, together with all youngsters who have or have not taken part in this selection, will continue to create positive changes for a much better world tomorrow.

Dr Cheung Kin Leung

When he first met a drug addict, the young doctor vowed never to get near another one. "What have I done to deserve this ?" he asked, after being hit in the face by the addict at a city hospital. His specs were broken and his face badly bruised.

That face is now a beloved one among a large number of Hong Kong addicts trying to battle their inner devils. Almost like a priest saving souls, Dr. Ben Cheung Kin Leung is on a heady mission to save the internally battered bodies of addicts and help them overcome drugs.

"I think I have found my path in life. This is now my profession, my hobby and my life's calling. Hong Kong is close to an epidemic of drug addiction and there is a lot to be done," said Dr. Cheung after being nominated as one of the five outstanding young persons.

After the incident, he went into child psychiatry. In 1995, the government realized that the abuse of toluene or organic solvents was growing at a fast pace and there was a need for specialized facilities to treat chemical addicts. Dr. Cheung was one of the doctors who were persuaded to join this hitherto new branch of treatment in Hong Kong.

"I was almost forced to go into this field. After I was in this field for a few months, my vision changed," he said.

Addicts in Hong Kong use four major kinds of drugs: sedatives, cannabis, amphetamine and heroine. Interestingly, amphetamine is a chemical compound that is easily available from chemist shops as there is no official ban on its sale. There are other chemicals, often a mixture of different chemicals, used by addicts. The government is now contemplating a law change to regulate the sale and usage of addictve.

When it comes to medical treatment and rehabilitation, the focus has been on heroine addicts. As a drug, heroine has attracted the maximum attention of the media and the authorities. In contrast, amphetamine usage, though widely prevalent, has not drawn much attention.

"There is also a great need for more treatment and rehabilitation centers in Hong Kong for non-opium drug takers," he said.

"The worst part is that young people now attend parties in which psychotropic drugs like amphetamine is used. They start out with innocent curiosity to experience what it means to 'get high'. They think they are having a good time. They are later caught in the cycle of drug taking. There used to be a lot of social stigma attached to drug taking in the past. Unfortunately, it has become fashionable with some young people these days," said Dr Cheung.

"They develop convulsions and epilepsy. Some of them can be treated if detected earlier," he said. "We are also using alternative methods like acupuncture to treat this malaise. I see a lot of potential in the use of modern acupuncture in this kind of treatment," he said.

What happens to an addict after he has gone through a course of medical treatment? Do they slip into the chemical booby-trap once again?

"I try to encourage them to keep off drugs. I have created a CD with inspirational songs written and sung by me. Many of my patients listen to the CD to get moral support when they are desperately trying to overcome the addiction. Sometimes, these people get sacked in their jobs or quarrel with their families. They suffer different forms of stress that lead them back to drug taking. This is the time they need moral support. I ask them to hang on and keep going without drugs," he said.

"Some cases have affected me very much. Amphetamine is a stimulus that can result in delayed and prolonged complications. I once dealt with a young man who seemed to have recovered. After some time, he committed suicide by jumping to his death. There was a girl I came across who snuffed solvent. Her cerebellum had been destroyed permanently and could not walk straight," he recounted.

Dr. Cheung spends a good part of his leisure time to help addicts and their relatives to form self-help organizations. He is part of several social organizations and Christian rehabilitation centers in addition to being a member of Action Committee Against Narcotics. He had been interviewed in a TVB television program entitled, "To live is to work wonder-II". He has also been selected for the Award of Merit under the Outstanding Anti-Drug Workers Award Scheme organized by the A.A.A.N. in 2000.

"I spend some of my spare time on these people. This takes away the time I should be spending with my family. But my wife is very supportive and understands that I am using the time to good purpose," he said.

Living in Hong Kong and not chasing the best avenues for making money alone should make Dr Cheung a remarkable person. "I am a Christian. I have realized that making money is not an eternal goal. Some of my colleagues have gone into private practice and made a good deal of money. But I am happy with what I am doing because this has turned out to be my life's goal," he said.

Ms Fok Ka Mun, Kathy

Being awarded a six-year Texas Government Music Scholarship, Fok obtained her B.M. degree in Composition and M.M. degree in Choral Conducting from the University of Houston, USA in 1990 and 1992. As a student conductor, Fok conducted three university choruses during her college years. She also conducted various choirs in Texas, USA and Ontario, Canada. Under her baton, choirs had given numbers of performances, and her children's choir was the first Chinese group being invited to perform in the Houston-Alief Arts Festival in 1993.

After returning to Hong Kong in 1995, Fok joined the Hong Kong Children's Choir (HKCC) and became its first full-time female Music Director in 1997. During her time in HKCC, the number of members has increased to over 4000. Choral singing is the art form which requires obedience, cooperation and harmony. Besides music, children also learn to respect everyone as an individual and understand the necessity of living harmoniously with one another.

Fok has led overseas tours to US, Canada, Australia, Japan, Europe and mainland China, not only offering chances for children to meet new faces, places and cultures, but also serves as ambassadors to promote music of Hong Kong. HKCC has busy performing schedule locally as well. Children are proud of having participated in many memorable and sometimes historical performances such as the Handover in 1997 and the opening ceremony of new airport in 1998.

Fok has made a great contribution in organizing numerous charity performances. Besides having frequent singing performance in hospitals, elderly homes and other charitable organizations, Fok led over 2000 singers to form the first choral marathon in Hong Kong in 1999 as a fund raising event for deaf children. Recently, another charity concert for the deaf was held in Hong Kong Cultural Center. Fok turned music into "visible" with the aids of signing, lighting and movements for the deaf audience who experienced their first memorable live concert.

Together with the tremendous experience of the past and an ongoing commitment to choral excellence, Fok and her choir continue to provide children with rich life-long memories, and our community with invaluable musical experience.

霍氏分別在1990及1992年完成她在休士頓大學修讀作曲的學士學位及主修合唱指揮的碩士學位。 1995 年加入香港兒童合唱團並於1997年成為該團有史以來首位女全職總監，亦是最年輕的一位。

在「香兒」工作期間，令團員人數增至超過四千人，使很多兒童受惠。霍氏曾率領「香兒」團員到美加、澳洲、日本、歐洲以及國內多個地方作交流演出，令團員獲益不淺。每次出國演出，霍氏都會將香港優質及高水準的合唱演出帶到各地，同時亦介紹本地優質的合唱作品給外地觀眾。除海外演出外，亦參與很多大型的本地演出，如回歸、赤蠟角機場開幕等，見證香港歷史。霍氏對慈善演出更是不遺餘力，曾於1997年首創全港合唱馬拉松，率領二千多名團員為本地失聰兒童籌款。另外亦經常到醫院、老人院等地方獻唱。最近，她又再次為香港失聰人士舉辦籌款音樂會，並借助手語、燈光及動作將音樂變成視覺立體化，令失聰人士都能親身感受到音樂會之演出。

Ms Fok Ka Mun, Kathy

Some say children's laughter is the best music in the world. Some say it is the song of birds. And some feel the loveliest music is the hymn of the Lord.

Roll them all into one and you have a choir.

Thus, it is not difficult to understand why Ms. Fok Ka Mun, Kathy derives pleasure from her job as a choral conductor. More so, because it has brought her a lot of prestige that includes being nominated as one of the Outstanding Young Persons this year.

She did her B.M. degree in Composition with the help of a six-year music scholarship from the Texas government and followed it up with a M.M. degree in Choral Conducting from the University of Houston in the United States in 1992. Her baton has given three university choruses and choir performances in Texas and Ontario, Canada. In 1993, her children's choir became the first Chinese group to perform at the Houston-Alief Arts Festival.

That was before she joined the Hong Kong Children's Choir (HKCC) in 1995 and went on to become its first full-time female music director two years later. One of her notable feats is conducting for deaf children. Yes, deaf children. "We used lighting to show the dynamics of music and we used sign language to convey the meaning. I think we reached out and touched the deaf audience as I saw some of them in tears. It gave me great happiness and satisfaction," she said.

"Choral music requires harmony. It teaches children how to live harmoniously. They learn disclipine as they have to follow the conductor. I think they become better children when they attend choir classes," Fok said.

"We get very positive feedback from school teachers on the performance of our children in general studies. There are occasional complaints from parents who are worried that it takes away some time that may be used for normal studies. But choir helps build up their character and develops qualities like concentration which is useful in general education," Fok said.

"The general perception is that choir is best suited for girls and very few boys join it. Every child is unique, everyone of them have a talent. Actually, the voice of boys has a brighter sound like a bell. We have formed a boy's choir. Of course,most boys leave the choir once they reach the age of 13-14 because their voices begin to change. But there is not much change in the voices of girls," she said. HKCC holds 50 classes across the city, focusing on children in the 4-17 age group."

Her ambition is to promote local composers and take local music abroad. Two of the former TOYP awardees - Prof. Chan Wing Wah and Dr. Victor Chan - have made it be big league in the music scene and Fok wants to use their music in her choirs.

Daughter of a merchant father and a mother who is a painter, Fok is married to a music conductor. "I think I am a very lucky person. I am able to do what I like most and have an understanding musician husband. I will try to balance my work with family life. It will be a challenge as we go along, but a challenge I can handle well.

"Getting this award will help a lot. We are fairly well known abroad and much less known in Hong Kong. This award will help us promote choral music in Hong Kong more vigorously.

Fok represents a little known face in the dollar-driven life of Hong Kong. "If you think of money all the time, you cannot be a musician. Music conductors are greatly respected, but most of them may not be rich. Artists usually aspire to become famous and making money is not the first of their priorities," she said.

She has performed around the world, in the U.S., Canada, Australia, Japan, Europe and Mainland China, acquainting her choir children around to diverse cultures in strange and wonderful places. Her pupils have participated in many memorable events that include a performance on the historical day of Handover in 1997 and the opening of the new airport in 1998. She led 2,000 singers to form the first choral marathon in Hong Kong as a fund raising event for deaf children in 1999.

Her tuning began early and nothing can now take Fok away from her sonorous life journey." I joined a choir when I was 11. It has since been clear in my mind that I will devote my life to choir music. I am happy at the way things have turned out for me." she said.

Ms. Lee Lai Fan (Koi Ming Fai)

When Lee was small, her mother always brought her along to watch Cantonese Opera. Lee fell in love with it and started her training at the Cantonese Opera School affiliated to the Chinese Artists Association of Hong Kong when she was at Form 3. The training was not easy in any way but she had made through it and graduated after five years' training.After that, she decided to take Cantonese Opera as her career as it is the most interesting job she had ever come across.

In 1987, she took part in the Cantonese Operatic Parade organized by the Regional Council. Her effort was duly recognized by the audience and the Cantonese Opera veterans, including, Mr. Lam Kar-sing. He has taught Lee a lot, including techniques and philosophy in becoming an outstanding Cantonese Opera artiste. Lee has joined the Ming Chee Sing Chinese Opera Troupe as the major artiste in 1990. The troupe has since remained one of the most active Cantonese opera troupes in Hong Kong. Besides concentrating on Cantonese Opera, Lee has also tried to widen her exposure and to enrich her performing techniques by taking part in TV series and joining the stage play, "The Butterfly Story" in 1998.

Lee is eager to promote Cantonese Opera to the younger generation. Therefore, she joined the Hong Kong Schools Cantonese Operatic Song Promotion Scheme and the Education Department in the production of Compact Disc on teaching teachers and students of Cantonese Opera. She hopes that more youngsters will find Cantonese Opera interesting and that will make the future of Cantonese Opera more promising. To make her contribution to the community, she entertains requests from various voluntary and charity organizations if she finds her participation beneficial to the elderly or to the community. Lee firmly believes that if everyone can be more caring to the others, we will definitely be making our community better for living.

蓋鳴暉自少因時常陪伴媽媽觀看粵劇，漸漸亦愛上這門藝術。由於對粵劇非常熱愛，中學三年級開始，她已於課餘時間在八和會館學習粵劇。雖然在訓練期間吃了不少苦頭，但為了實踐自小的心願，加上粵劇前輩鼓勵，畢業後，她仍然堅持以自己最喜歡的粵劇工作為終身職業。

1987 年初試啼聲，參加區域市政局舉辦的粵劇新秀匯演，得到各方稱許，深感鼓舞，同時亦開始種下了她與粵劇泰斗林家聲先生師徒的情誼。師父言傳身教，令她體會到必須要痛下苦功，才可以在粵劇界脫穎而出。1990 年加盟剛成立的鳴芝聲劇團，成為主要演員，為現時最活躍的劇團之一。除專注於粵劇演出外，亦曾作多方面嘗試，如參與電視劇及於 1998 年參與舞台劇「梁祝」的演出，從而增加見識及豐富表演技巧。

在忙碌的工作之餘，蓋鳴暉亦非常希望能將粵劇推廣予年青一代，所以她參與了香學校粵曲推廣計劃及協助教育署製作教學光碟，希望培養更多年青一代對粵劇的興趣，令這門藝術可以延續下去。除了粵劇工作給予她非常大的滿足感外，她亦希望善用本身在粵劇方面專長及知名度，祇要時間許可，又能夠令老人家開心及幫助社群，她都一定幫忙，如果每個人都能夠多些關心別人，這個社會一定會更美好。

Ms Lee Lai Fan (Koi Ming Fai)

Playing the pied piper to a litany of rats is not difficult anymore. Lots of them have put up little signboards on pop street. The real challenge lies in testing the patience of the pop-crazy generation of music lovers with long-winded renderings of pristine melodies.

Koi Ming Fai is one of the few to take up this challenge and virtually take a vast audience by its ears. She has made Cantonese opera popular among a section of western pop lovers. The award goes as much to the stage personality of Koi Ming Fai as to the off-stage human being whose real is Lee Lai Fan.

The judging panel has discovered that the real person is more than a singer; she is a humanist using her talent for the underprivileged and for heralding the cause of preserving a solid music tradition in the hurly-burly of Hong Kong life.

A web site poll by http://cantonese-opera.com listed the top seven favorite Cantonese opera stars, who are:
1. Yum Kim Fai (died in 1989)
2. Bak Sheut Sin (aged 71)
3. Loong Geem Saung (aged 50s)
4. Lam Kar Sing (aged 68)
5. Fong Yeem Fun (aged 72)
6. Koi Ming Fai (aged below 40)
7. Sun Ma Tsaih (died in 1997)

Two of them have died, three of them are in their seventies, one is aged 50 and only Lee is in the prime of youth at age below 40. One need not second-guess on what the future holds for her.

The ambition to perform Cantonese opera on stage rose in her when she was a mere child while attending opera shows along with her mother. In 1987, she set out on her chosen path by joining a four-year training programme of the 120-year old traditional organization for Cantonese opera called "Chinese Artists Association of Hong Kong." Very soon, her teachers discovered that her voice was just right for singing "Ping Hou" style, with its emphasis on technique, scale and range.

By 1990, she was performing in not just in Hong Kong, but also China, Singapore, Canada and the United States, when she joined one of the territory's three leading professional groups, Ming Chee Sing Cantonese Opera Troupe.

"Before joining the Ming Chee Sing Opera Troupe, my stage performance was only limited to amateur outings," Lee recalled.

Undoubtedly, Lee today is the youngest outstanding wen wu sheng (female impersonates male roles) in Hong Kong. But what makes her stand apart is her eagerness to promote this field of art to the younger generation as well as her performing Cantonese opera for charity purpose.

The popularity of Lee has inspired many people in Hong Kong to watch Cantonese opera again, which was in its heyday in 1950s-1960s. But Lee wants to attract younger people who regard this art form as outdated. Her performance in various popular series on TV and charity shows is also attracting a lot of attention among the young people.

"I will not give up to promote Cantonese opera to the youth, if this generation give up, how will it be in the next generation?" she said firmly.

She joined the Hong Kong Schools Cantonese Operatic Song Promotion Scheme and always acted as the judge in those Cantonese Opera Song Competitions. She also cooperated with the Education Department to produce compact discs to teach teachers and students about Cantonese opera. Students can enjoy half price in watching her performance on stage.

"I hope that one day Cantonese opera will be as popular as Beijing opera, which is widely known to the western people."

Many often, Lee performs Cantonese opera for many voluntary and charity organizations to raise money for the needy in the society, especially the elderly.

"I want to open a center for the elderly, I think that we should give more concerns to the elderly who had contributed much to the society in their younger ages and should enjoy the fruits in their retired life."

Lee is excited about the award, which she thinks it is a recognition for her efforts in Cantonese opera and her contribution to the society. "The award indeed can give me a positive identity to encourage young people to do more charity work," Lee said with a smile.

"I always remind myself to think positive when I was facing difficulties, I think I will not give up because I treat Cantonese opera not just as my career, but also my interest and my life."

She suggests to those unemployed people to think positively in life. She also hoped that the government would provide help to those unemployed in the society.

Besides her personal effort, Lee admits that her achievement today should count on her teacher Lam Kar Sing, who was the famous Cantonese opera actor in the 1960s, has taught Lee everything not just in opera performing skills, but also philosophy of life. "It is lucky to be the disciple of Lam Kar Sing, he is the most influential person in my life."

他在2001年獲頒香港特區政府行政長官社會服務狀的勳銜。

Mr. Poon Kin Lui

He has the hard and stiff look of a military man on guard duty. The expression on his face would seem to be a camouflage hiding a milky heart if you find out what he has been doing.

Meet Poon Kin Lui, the messiah of Hong Kong's disabled athletes. He is providing moral and training support to a set of men and women that possess a rare gift: a will of steel to overcome physical disabilities and actually excel in the physical activity of sports.

Poon has been the head coach for a disabled team that set world records respectively at the 1996 Atlanta Paralympic Games and the 2000 Sydney Paralympic Games. He has been involved in training for disabled athletes in Hong Kong since 1989 when he was a student in the Chinese University of Hong Kong.

He has many achievements to his credit. They include Chief Executive 's Commendation for Community Service in 2001, Distinguished Services Award for Coaching (Physically Disabled) and Coaching Excellence Award (Physically Disabled) by the Hong Kong Bank Foundation Coaching Awards 2000 as well as Coach of the Year in 1996, 1997 and 1998. After graduating from the university in 1990, Poon found a job as a secondary school teacher, but he still continued to train the disabled athletes voluntarily after work.

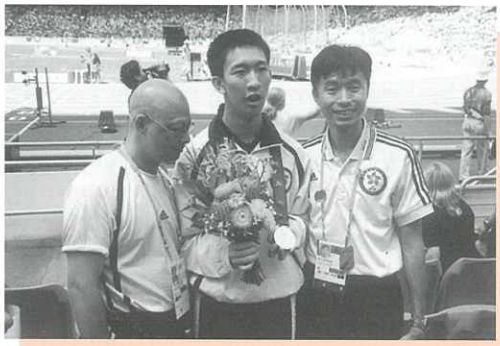

"I keep training the disabled athletes because I think it is a very meaningful matter, just like patients need doctor, disabled athletes also need professional coaches to train them to win prize in sport ground to regain their confidence in life," said Poon.

"Don't fuss about reward, don't fuss about what you have given to help those needy if you have the ability to give," he continued.

"I believe that a man should not give up, he should wait patiently for opportunities to come his way and grab them when they come," he said after being chosen by the judging panel for his outstanding contributions to the quality of life in Hong Kong.

He had a hard time getting admitted to the university and made it after trying several times. He failed in leading the disabled athlete team to win medals in the 1992 Barcelona Paralympic Games, but his persistent character asked him to stage a comeback and finally his relay team won the 4x100 meters race with a new world record in the 1996 Atlanta Paralympic Games.

Furthermore, in the 2000 Sydney Paralympic Games, his athlete So Wah Wai won three gold medals created with three world records.

"I did feel disappointed with the result in the 1992 Barcelona Paralympic Games, but I think examining the reason for failure is more important than feeling unhappy and doing nothing," Poon said.

"The effort is in fact more important than the final result, because one learns quite a lot during the process of achieving something" he added.

The 37-year-old coach is excited to receive the honor of one of the top five outstanding young persons chosen by the Chamber this year. He thinks that his effort in training the disabled team is the main reason for him to obtain the outstanding award, though he thinks luck is also another reason.

His next target now is to lead his disabled team to win medals again for Hong Kong in the International Paralympic Committee (IPC)'s World Athletics Championships next July in France and the 2004 Paralympic Games in Athens.

"I want to tell the society that if you are trying hard and have confidence in yourself, you will surely solve your difficulties and achieve your goals," he said.

"Also, I want to tell the society the significance of education," he added. To Poon, education is the best channel to encourage more young people to go for sport. Of course, the winning of Hong Kong athletes in international competitions is another best way to promote sport to the society.

Poon suggested that Hong Kong people should face bravely and positively in such economic slump.

"Today is rainy day, but it will not be all the time, tomorrow may be sunny day again, forget the past and try hard today should be the right way," Poon said.

As Beijing is the host for the 2008 Olympic Games, Poon thinks that Hong Kong should help the nation by providing human resources and its information technology to promote the games to the outside world.

"It will be a good chance for Hong Kong people to learn how to plan and prepare for an international sporting activity, " he said.

Ms Elizabeth Quat

"Roughly 90 percent of Internet host computers are located in high-income countries that account for only 16 percent of world population"(World Bank, 2000).

This statement underscores the fact that bridging the digital divide should be one of the priorities of developmental work. Hong Kong is one of the world's cities suffering from the wide gap between Internet haves and have-nots. This is why the judging panel has chosen Elizabeth Quat, a crusader in the effort to bridge this gap, as one of the Outstanding Young Persons this year.

Along with some persons who shared her dreams, Elizabeth set up the Internet Professionals' Association (iProA) in 1999. The purpose was to encourage people to make use of information technology in life. "People" is the basic of our association, we think that information technology should be used to improve people's life and solve problems in life. We hold seminars to educate people. We also hold an award competition called "High-Tech Web Award" for corporation websites," she said.

The work has attracted a lot of attention. In the second year of the competition, as many as 300 companies participated while 30,000 people voted for the company web sites of their choice.

"This year, I introduced a campaign called "Web Care", in coordination with 48 organizations (including government, commercial organizations, non-profit organizations and professionals).

We published a booklet called "An Easy Guide to Building No Barrier Web Sites" to promote our idea of "Web Care", that is, producing website that is no barrier to those who are blind, disabled, old or not highly educated. The book will teach people how to produce no barrier website. If organizations have problems in producing their websites, they can visit IproA's website and use our voluntary helpers with 'Website Accessibility Consultants' facility," she said.

Apart from her work as General Manager in sales and marketing, she is also the Vice Chairman of the E-Committee of the Hong Kong General Chamber of Commerce besides being on the IT-related committees of various government agencies. In her earlier job at CCT Telecom, she helped HKNet become the second largest ISP in Hong Kong, developed several M&A projects and helped launch CCT Multimedia. Later, she engineered several market entry strategies at Sa Sa International, a role that helped the company win three awards in Asiamoney's 1998 series on 'Best Managed Companies'.

As a child, the dot.com lady dreamed of becoming a dancer. That is why she has majored in dancing at the Hong Kong Academy of Performing Arts, besides doing her MBA in marketing and Ph.D in management through part-time study. What is more, she is certified PADI Scuba Diving Instructor, a Medic First Aid Instructor and an award winning Underground Photographer.

"Last year, many non-profit organizations came to us saying that they would like to open some computer training courses for those who want to learn computer, but they don't have enough resources. I suddenly got an idea to help educate housewives, children, newly-immigrated people and the disabled, particularly blind people. That's how the web care campaign was born," she said.

What is it that drives her? "The driving force, I think, is compassion, support and encouragement from members who have a common aim with me. I never think of giving up like those involved in raising funds for voluntary work. Then, I have to boost the enthusiasm of our voluntary helpers. Voluntary work demands a lot of professionalism and patience", she said. Her organization is supported by Microsoft and Compaq.

"The voluntary work has trained me to think over issues from different angles, enhanced my leadership qualities. It is a kind of challenge, a training, a test of my ability, " she said.

The habit of tackling challenges grew in her childhood. "My parents divorced when I was seven years old, my family is broken. My mother had to take care of me and my two younger sisters and it was very hard on her. I was so upset about my father's decision to leave home. The second most difficult time of my life was when I had to quit dancing and choose business management as career. I needed a job and there was no other alternative," she said.

"Now, I do not regret the decision. I need economic independence; something that dancing could not have given me. I had to struggle a lot, doing three business courses in the School of Continuing Education in the University of Hong Kong. One day, my professor said that marketing is a kind of art. That set the course for me and I went along with studying marketing," she said.

Strive to be Outstanding

"I think that each of the people selected to be outstanding has to have certain distinguishable qualities. It is not always easy to find individuals who have all these characteristics and in some years the task is harder than others." Dr. Rosanna Wong, the Chief Judge of 2001 Ten Outstanding Young Persons Selection, said.

For this year's TOYP Panel of Judges, it was certainly not an easy task. As the Chief Judge Dr. Rosanna Wong, member of the Executive Council, pointed out that choosing a person as one of the Outstanding Young Persons of Hong Kong was an enormously important task which she took very seriously.

The word "outstanding" means different qualities to different people. However all judges shared the same view that it included a demonstrated commitment to the community, especially to the more vulnerable.

Dr. Wong also believed that these qualities included hard work and individual accomplishment in one's profession.

Miss Yue said that this year's awardees excelled either in their chosen fields or in their selfless work to help different groups in the community. "One of the awardees overcame personal hardship and very difficult family circumstances," she said. On the other hand, Mr. Sheng noticed that this year's awardees had the unique characteristics of being highly entrepreneurial and creative.

Professor Li advised that young people must stretch themselves and think about what they have been given in order to become outstanding. "They have to overcome their own difficulties and obstacles, especially overcoming disadvantages," Professor Li said.

Professor Arthur Li, Vice-Chancellor of the Chinese University of Hong Kong, further stated that an outstanding person must think outside of his or her own box. Mr. Andrew Sheng, Chairman of the Securities & Futures Commission, remarked that one must be curious to learn in order to become outstanding. Miss Denise Yue, The Secretary for Treasury, concluded that apart from all the above qualities, an outstanding person should have integrity, perseverance, and resistance of being complacent.

Mr. Sheng saw the importance for the young to embrace the spirit of life-long learning as we enter the new millennium of knowledge-based economy. "As long as we learn to change, Hong Kong will remain one of the most exciting cities in Asia, " he said.

Miss Yue felt that young people in today's society need to broaden their horizon, resist short-term expediency, persevere in the face of adversity and hardship, learn to be less self-centred and less mercenary, avoid blaming others for setbacks or failures, and stay focused.

"I believe that we must never stop looking for those young people who meet the highest of standards and to honour them and introduce them to the wider public. I also believe that each of the winners should very seriously consider this Award as a responsibility and call to be positive role models and examples to other young people in Hong Kong." Dr. Wong concluded.

Community Service Day - October 28
"Hand in Hand for Tomorrow" 「傑青商青 手創前路」

It was the first time in the history of TOYP Selection that a community service day was included. The event named "Hand in Hand for Tomorrow" was organized by the Hong Kong Junior Chamber and co-organized by the Hong Kong Federation of Handicapped Youth (HKFHY). The organizing committee wants to bring the message that the awardees of TOYP Selection will take the lead to serve the community especially the less concerned group.

On 28th October, the awardees of 2001 TOYP Selection together with hundreds of members of HKJC, disabled persons, students, and volunteers had participated in creating a paper flower sculpture made up by over 73,000 pieces of paper flowers.

Through the challenge of the new Guinness World Records, we hope to promote the public concern on the Hong Kong disabled people and their employment opportunities as well as to raise fund for the first self-financed floral workshop of the HKFHY, which can provide more working opportunities for physically handicapped people. All the participants were so enthusiastic that we managed to complete the floral sculpture within three hours. It was a memorable experience for all of them.

About The Performers

Belilios Public School Symphonic Orchestra & School Choir

Founded in 1986, the BPS symphonic orchestra has 80 members from Secondary 1 to 7. The orchestra received a number of trophies at the annual Hong Kong Schools Music Festival. The BPS school choir comprises 200 students.Phenomenal results were achieved over the years not only in the Hong Kong Schools' Music Festivals but also in the 10th Australian International Music Festival in 1999 and in International Choral Kathaumixw in Canada in 2000.

BPS orchestra will play "Grand March" from Aida by Verdi as the opening while the choir members closes today's ceremony with the song "明天會更好".

Faust International Youth Theatre - "The Jade Emperor's Great Race"

Faust International Youth Theatre is an exciting theatre group formed in 1999 to bring the wonderful world of theatre and performing arts to the young people of Hong Kong. When we consider what makes these award recipients so special, we come up with adjectives to describe them like "clever" or "brave," "compassionate" or "independent". These are qualities that can be assigned to the various animals of the Chinese Zodiac... an interesting metaphor for the society at large. The Great Jade Emperor, King of Heaven, understood this connection between people's personalities and animal behavior. That's why he decided to have a race, in order to decide which animals got prominence on the Zodiac cycle. It was also a way of marking the passing of time. From a performance perspective, animals provide fertile ground for creativity.

Gay Singers

The group was established in 1994.The eight Gay Singers you see tonight are alumni of Chung Chi College, Chinese University of Hong Kong. We call ourselves "gay" because the word "Chi" is pronounced as "gay" in Cantonese. We studied music during college time, and, in fact, most of us are instrumentalists who play a large variety of musical instruments, ranging from the Chinese mouth organ and zither to the Western pipe organ and guitar. As the combination is too diverse, it seems that the only way we can make ensemble is to use our build-in instruments, that is our voices. We sing self-arranged pieces only. The best ones include Italian arias with "ta-ri-ra" accompaniment, and the vocal version of Mozart's Horn Concerto, to name a few. We shall sing the songs: Lemon Tree, 問我, I Will Follow Him

Introduction of The Outstanding Young Persons' Association

The Outstanding Young Persons' Association (TOYPA) was formed in 1977. The membership is made up of awardees of the Ten Outstanding Young Persons' Selection, just exceeded two hundred this year.

The Ten Outstanding Young Persons' Selection, introduced to Hong Kong in 1970, is a major project of the Hong Kong Junior Chamber. Each year, the award is open to nominations by the public. After the process of carefully vetting candidates' data by an appointed auditor firm, the candidates are presented to a Judging Panel consisting of renowned leaders in the government, business, industries, education and various professions. Merits are given to the candidates' exceptional achievement in their respective fields as well as their contributions of personal time and efforts in serving the community.

TOYPA not only gives proper recognition to the achievements of the recipients, but also carries with it certain responsibilities. All those selected are expected to make further contributions to the community of Hong Kong and to serve as inspirational examples to other young people. It is with this spirit that recipients of the Award work together to serve the community.

The aims of TOYPA are:
1. To sponsor and organize projects for the well-being of Hong Kong;
2. To propose recommendations to the Government or relevant authorities on matters pertaining to the welfare of Hong Kong;
3. To assist in the annual selection of the Ten Outstanding Young Persons.

TOYPA membership covers diverse industries and professions including a number of active members in decisive arenas, serving on the Executive Council, Legislative Council, District Boards, Advisory Committees, Drafting Committee for the Basic Law of HKSAR, and National Peoples' Congress of the PRC and Hong Kong Affairs Advisors....etc.

Since its inception, TOYPA has organized and sponsored numerous community service projects. All financial resources have been generated from funds raised over the years. In all projects organized, co-organised or sponsored by TOYPA, members take an active role with commitment and dedication.
