JCI HONG KONG NATIONAL PRESIDENT

SENATOR WINNIE YEUNG

“ LIFE IS LIKE A ROLLER COASTER. ”

It Is Up To Us To Choose To Embrace The Challenges And Enjoy The Ride Or To Rebel Against Them, Resenting Every Moment Of Our Journey. The former empowers us to learn and become better leaders, while the latter robs us of any growth or development.

How we spent the first quarter of the year proved that we chose the first option. COVID-19 has been particularly stressful for many of us because it’s hard to predict how things develop, and the situation could change rapidly. This might leave us feeling powerless, like we’re no longer in control of how to make things happen. However, I couldn’t be more proud to see that JCI Hong Kong and all of our Local Chapters remained confident and optimistic.

With innovation and passion, we redirected our energy towards things we have control over and do everything we could to stay connected, not just within JCI Hong Kong, but also with JC members all over the world and various stakeholders of the society, to see what we could do together to RISE again.

My fellow members, thank you so much for the courage you demonstrated these days. Courage is grace under pressure. You have been an inspiration for our young people and let’s keep up the good work to show the world how Empowered Leaders Empower Leaders!

INTERVIEW WITH JCI SECRETARY GENERAL

We have Kevin Hin, JCI Secretary General, talk about his JCI Journey

Written by Vincent Pang, Editor-in-chief

" FROM MONACO TO WORLD "

How many times have you been to Hong Kong? What was your most memorable experience in Hong Kong?

I have been to Hong Kong about 20-25 times in my life for many reasons like came on holiday, working, training, JCI events like ASPAC 2012. The last time is about a consultant project in 2019. Through these four months, I have had the opportunity to define, explore the city, and understand the culture. Every single time I come to Hong Kong, I see something new and meet exciting new people, and it is such a dynamic place that I cannot wait to come back.

As being International leader, how much time do you spend on JCI work? How do you balance your life and what do you do in your leisure time to keep yourself happy and motivated?

In normal circumstances, I work on JCI most of the day time. Right now, I would be travelling a lot of JCI as well, like meeting members and meeting partners, since last year we cannot be able to do that, so I have been in Monaco since last year.

I need to work in different time zones, so I start working from 10 am. From 10 am-1 pm, I work with the Asia Pacific. After that, I will start to work with JCI South America and Europe on 1-4 pm and final with JCI USA and different teams until around 11 pm. Of course, I also try to take a break as well to take a cover. It is great right now to have a work-life balance because of COVID that I do not need to travel. I will do 5 times exercises a week, meet some friends. Also, I enjoy cooking. Cooking makes me relax a lot. I prefer spending a little more time making a nice dish rather than eating something that is really quick and pre-prepared. Besides, I like reading good books too. If I could travel again, I will probably start moving cause it stimulates me the most in my life.

In the recent 5 years, SG Kevin has taken up different position in JCI World from Vice President and Executive Vice President of Euro Area and SG for now, what makes you want to take up the challenge of being those position?

Last five years, I have been quite active internationally. Every single position of JCI has been a big learning for me. And I have different goals in each one, which is learning something new and be able to get back to your organization as well. I am also doing my best to be a national president, local or national vice president, or COC director for area conferences, and the Vice President and

Executive Vice President. What I always found important is that while adapting to each position, I developed new skills as well. It helps me to grow and to prove each time. But at the same time, I will avoid sticking to my own personal values and styles. It is not about adapted myself and my personality to a new position. It is putting my own personality into every single new position instead. So, I stay the same person as a VP, EVP, or Secretary General. Close to my values, I always try to make members feel special, be professional, and work as hard as I can at every single opportunity to be able to achieve strong performance results.

As you said mentioned in your new year greeting video, International network is the most core value of JCI, not just only about JC projects or charity projects. Would you like to share some tips with JCI Hong Kong members, how can they train up their leadership skill through the international network?

The global network makes JCI unique and stands out from any of the organizations. 150 thousand young people are enterprising on leaders as we called them in 110 countries but all sharing the same values and mindset as we are developing the four areas of opportunities. Now, what makes JCI so special is that, for example, you can join JCI Shatin or JCI Tsuen Wan, you can stay in your local organization, or you can stay within Hong Kong. But if you do that for 10 or 15 years, you will only discover 25% of what JCI can offer because, in the name JCI, there is an 'I' as international. So we really recommend all members who join JCI locally to discover the international site. What can they get from it? It is for diversity. Even if you stay in the Asia Pacific, members from Hong Kong can meet members from Taiwan, Mongolia, Bangladesh, Sri Lanka, Japan, etc. All sources of different places where they can develop their leadership skills, like public speaking, debating, cross-cultural exchanges, projects twinning, and also business networking. If we amplify this for the global level and the world congress, JCI Hong Kong members can meet somebody from Paraguay or Zimbabwe, or anywhere else in the world or even the USA, and this is what the fusion is. It is really to open a young person's mind. Imagine if you are an 18-25-year-old new member and you can really discover the world. Thanks to JCI, members were being the part of the Hong Kong delegation and going to Korea, Japan, Estonia, which is not a classical tourist destination, or going to Ulaanbaatar, Mongolia. In a JCI family atmosphere, this is what really helps create the JCI leader, as well as helping global entrepreneurs, global networkers, global communicators, and global change-makers enhance this global mindset. And this is how the JCI can be successful as a global organization, but also you have more empowered leaders in Hong Kong as well who can improve your community's economy and society too.

"Empowered Leaders Empower Leaders" is the theme of JCI Hong Kong this year - As our source of inspiration and empowerment now, who is/was the one who empower you as a leader? Any little story or memorable incident between you two that you can share with us?

It is a good question also. Actually, I don't have one single mentor who had supported me for my life. Of course, my father, my family are also important as life guides. In different walks of life and different positions in my professional and JCI carrier, I have taken various inspirations from lots of people I have met at different points. For example, in the JCI level, when I was a national president, my assigned vice president gave me a lot of great insights. Before she became the JCI president, even as a VP, she gave me a lot of wonderful insights. When I was the JCI Vice President, the president gave me a huge amount of mentoring, just a leading by example and how he wanted to move things, but I could say that right now, in my current role as a Secretary-General, I see it more than a JCI position. I see it as a professional position since it is a full-time job, and I have a very strong responsibility of managing the JCI budget and leading a team of 27 people. So, my main source of inspiration is my formers, as the CEO of my former job at APM Monaco, a French entrepreneur currently based in Hong Kong. He always inspired me by his vision of developing a multinational jewelry brand when I joined in 2012, with this very clear and direct vision and maintaining strong confidence and unwavering belief in his success. It led to the opening of 300 stores and massive success in Hong Kong and China, and all around the world. Opening 300 mono-brands stores which are fully owned in 6 years, which is amazing. And each time I encountered a problem or a question in my business model at JCI. In terms of looking of raising revenue or decreasing costs or having outsells or marketing strategy, or managing the team even, I think what Philip would do in my case and also think of his strength that he would go for it immediately without thinking too much and follow his instincts. This is something that I've learned over the last two years while being in charge of the JCI headquarter is always having a clear strategy and maintaining an unwavering belief. In the fact that we are all going in the right direction and doing the right thing for the organization or the brand. This could also apply to business, to JCI, to non-profit, also in life as well. I've always found this incredibly important, so lots of mentors and they always inculcated this belief in me.

If we request SG Kevin to do a quick JCI 2021 mid-year evaluation for yourself, what have you achieved and what need to be improved? What's your plan for 2nd half year of 2021?

For 2021, it is a very interesting year, because we started on the 1st January and we don't have a crystal ball. In 2020, we had plans, and they all went down the drain, and we have to pivot JCI very quickly. It actually helps us get to where we wanted to be much faster in 2020, changing the directions away from young active citizens towards enterprising young leaders. When I see the empowered leaders and power leaders, this is exactly the same direction we are pushing in at the global level. In 2021, we knew there was going to be a pandemic, but we don't know the factors of uncertainty that we still have now is how long we cannot make social and psychological effects carry on the effects on young people and in JCI. So, what we will be able to anticipate is slightly better than what we could not do last year. This is living with the pandemic and trying to make sure it doesn't affect our daily lives. To answer your question, we've started the year with a clear KPI and goals. Of course, we can always do better. I'd already reach my corporate sponsorship target by now. I'd love to have 1000 people of the European conference instead of 400. Also, I'd like to have 2000 people as American instead of 500 people. Even I'd love to have physical events as well, but that was not possible. So, I tried. Of course, I am very critical of myself and my performance, but I've learned as a leader in the organization that there is something we cannot control. We can try to control it as much as possible, but some things are out of control. What's important that the attitude that we had and how we react to them. To be honest, I don't believe it, but I can look back on 1st half of 2021 with too many regrets because I know that my team and myself could have made the best possible efforts, and we could not have tried to do any better. Now, of course, for the rest of the year, we've got some very clear goals.

We've got our new wonderful JCI virtual community which is going to carry on pushing out so that members in Hong Kong can really discover the world as you have done with the first two areas conference. Winnie is going to deliver 2 more great area conferences and the wonderful world congress. We need to carry on pushing the JCI rise initiatives and supporting president, Ryubun in his goal of developing one future. But most importantly, the second half of this year is to start planning 2022 now. And this applies to JCI Hong Kong too, and this is what our main target will be. To make sure that by the end of November 2021, the 2022's plan is already 95% ready. We know exactly what is going to go on. We have full visibility that way if I need a change of plans. We can adapt to them, but at least as I'll say in my previous reply that I will know exactly where I want to go, what kind of results I want to achieve, how we're going to achieve them, how we were going to achieve financial results and membership growth. I will have all the answers by then. I already have a big idea by now. But all the answers be announced later. And this is what we are trying to achieve by the end of this year. To wrap up your question, that the plan for the 2nd half of 2021 is having 2022 already ready. I could have done better, but things could not have gone worse as well. The 1st half of 2021 has already been done, so what we can do is to grow and improve.

We are undergoing a period of uncertainty, and with lots of new challenges and priorities in life, say online learning, work from home, argument with family, physical and mental health issues, unstable income and many more...how would you encourage young people to take a step forward and become a leader to bring positive changes to the society/ the world?

Good question. All those things you have listened to sound like an overwhelming mountain of challenges like mile harvest if you take all of them together. Of course, every young person faces these challenges. There are two pieces of advice that I would like to give. First of all, when you get the whole mountain insides his job, family, problems being stuck at home. Take each one, one at a time. If you see it as one huge mountain, of course, it is going to be very difficult. Each problem needs to be tackled individually, one by one. You tackled one problem will give you more self-confidence to the rest and develop your leadership skills. Once you've overcome one problem, please think about what you learned, how I improved myself, how this can make me better. And that's how people become leaders. People don't become leaders overnight. It is by learning, by doing, and by getting out of the comfort zone. And the second thing I would like to remind everybody who is facing problems which you are not alone. Last year, when the JCI, when the whole world went on the locked down with the COVID-19 in March, JCI's slogan was "We are all in this together" as a global team, and it is the same as any young person in Hong Kong can have the JCI family to support as well. A JCI family is more than just the sum of its parts. It's actually this whole global team that could make you dream at. This is how previous collective positive energy and the exchange of information. This is how young people can improve, just the fact that they know they are not alone.

Learn obstacle is unsurmountable if it is faced together. Because of unity, everybody will succeed. That's what I would say in every young person's leadership journey. Also, believed in yourself, believe in your values, believe in what you have done already, and most importantly to believe the best is yet to come and you have the part to play in your future. This is really something which I didn't believe in that before I joined JCI. I had very little self-confidence, and JCI has given me that belief. It enables me to prove to myself and accessory to others that I'm capable of doing things that I had never believe I would have been able to do in 2003 when I joined this wonderful organization. JCI can help you do things that you've never thought you have been capable of, and this is the beauty of our organization. So, I hope it is concise enough for you to use, but that's my advice towards the young person.

A CONVERSATION WITH EMPOWERED LEADER

"Empowered Leaders, Empower Leaders"

Written by Vincent Pang, Editor-in-chief

As I see, PNP Ronald has done very smooth speeches in every single event, would you share how you can make it?

I am not the only one who can make speeches smooth. Just like NP Winnie or other outstanding JC members, they all have good public speaking skills. All my secret is you need to be well prepared, and a little tips to share is to remember the keywords. Keywords can always recall your memory to make your speech becomes smooth.

How's your feeling about the Grand Slam journey in 2018?

It's absolutely an unforgettable journey, especially the Africa and Middle East Conference, such an adventure. I had been to a primeval village in Africa to experience their local customs. Those experience you will never have it in your life before. I really recommend our members of JCIHK to go there at least once.

Road to JCI

Why PNP Ronald joined JCI?

As you know, my father was a legal advisor of JCI Sha Tin. When I finished my study overseas, I know I need to build up my network in Hong Kong, so I chose to start my JC path. The main difference between JCI and other youth organizations is we need to organize our projects by ourselves. The other youth organizations may have a strong secretariat to be their back up. Through JCI, we learn how to manage projects well.

How to become an 'Empowered Leader'? Can PNP say 3 characters and explain on it?

Above all, I may say the will to try. I have spotted that most of our members have this character. They are willing to try different positions in different projects. The second is the will to listen. If you make an impulsive decision without consensus, the plan will not go on as you wish. The best way is to listen some experienced people's comment, and let those methods into your plan to improve the effectiveness. The last is to pay more attention to our society. You need to catch up new things and stand on youth's shoes to make your plan more popular.

Road to National President

Did anyone or matters inspired you to take up national president position to lead JCIHK?

I won't say leading. I was actually contributing back to JCIHK. I had served JCI for 10 years in 2018. I wished to use my experience and network to make our members' knowledge more fruitful and extensive.

Do you agree National President is equal to Empowered Leader?

I think every position can be an empowered leader, whatever you are in OC team, board of director, those are all leader roles. Through those experience in local chapter, you will become an empowered leader.

What is your memorial moment when you are a national president?

Absolutely ASPAC in Japan. It seems like the most members from JCIHK joined in these years. One of the unforgettable moments is when having a group photo of all JCIHK members, we were just like under the spotlight. Every member of other countries kept their eye of us with envious. It feels like we bring the spirit of Hong Kong to ASPAC. I was so proud of our great participation rate.

What you have earn after finish your term of NP?

It's quite difficult to identify what I have earned from this position, but the main point is through this position, I can share what I earned to all the JCIHK members. The letter "I" of JCI means International, we can earn international experience from this most important value of JCI.

Road to JCI World

This year, PNP Ronald is Chairperson of JCI Asia and Pacific Development Council (APDC), can you introduce more about APDC?

APDC's major duty is to grow newly joined JCI countries and strengthen established JCI countries through the help of our experienced teammates.

How you get over the epidemics to meet your team and make the things great?

As you said, we cannot flight to meet up each other as the epidemics still affect us, so this year our theme is 'Grounded and Strong'(打好根基茁壯成長). We have organized a series of online training events to equip them and stay grounded. When the right moment comes, they can stay strong by standing on their own feet.

In a new mode, JC changes a lot of their operation, do PNP have any successful share to our members?

Nothing is perfect. You still have an opportunity to face an unexpected result even you have a well prepared plan. So crisis awareness and risk management is always necessary. As we always say, JCI is a place to let us face our deficiency and learn from our deficiency can make us growth.

WHEN TOYP-19 FACES TO COVID-19

We have Louis YAN Chak-kuen, Magician, talk about his success and transformation while the pandemic hit us

Written by Vincent Pang, Editor-in-chief

Hong Kong's David Copperfield, Magic Icon, first Hong Kong magician show in Las Vegas, two Guinness World Records, Awardee of Merlin Awards… Those Awards are not easy to come by. Louis Yan, a world-class magician, claims the glory by his own hand step by step.

"Ten Outstanding Young People (TOYP) is a historical and essential award and I never think that I can have it." In Dec 2019, Louis has been announced as awardee of TOYP. "At that time, I felt I have a sense of mission, which is to contribute to community and industry with my talent." After that, Louis visits lots of organizations as a volunteer to contribute back the society. One of the specials is having a magic show to Ebenezer School (心光盲人院暨學校).

Louis wishes that people with visual impairment can also enjoy the show.

Louis starts to learn magic by reading books, watch online magic tutorial and buy some props in magic shops. "I didn't have any teachers in my magician life, it is better for me as I love to decide what I wish to do. Through the self-learning, I learn how to arrange a well management on me and choose my right career path.

As usual, everyone wished having a great beginning of 2020 when 2019 was passed. Louis also has many huge plans ready to be executed. However, when Louis came back in February after finishing a great show in China and Las Vegas, the COVID-19 broke out. City was locked down. With the social distance, no one wishes to go out. Louis and his team has stopped all their works.

"At the beginning of the pandemics, we thought that it was just like SARS that everything will be alright soon. But hopelessly the out-come is not tally with our thinking." After few months, Louis has spotted that some magicians of other countries have launched virtual shows to their audience. So one word appeared inside Louis's head: Transformation.

"Not just I, the whole world is finding a way to transform the recent situation. From now to the future, digital is the major trend to propose your value. I would like to try preparing some online courses instead of performance show to have a breakthrough, not just for the pandemics.

Louis also found that self-media is quite trendy in these few years, people all can perform their talent in media like live steam and YouTube. "Why not just let it be a little break while everything is stopped. Try to equip yourself. My team and I also will brainstorm so many new magic and do some digital marketing like post our new magic to our online media. Don't lose your faith during the pandemics."

"I have some message to our teenagers," Louis said. "Due to the COVID-19, new normal is happening in our life. We need to change our mind and explore a new path to go on. Although we would not gain too many at the beginning, we still cannot give up. Try to insist on what your goal is and execute it.

Memorable Performance

Louis has done a lot of great show in his career, he especially mentioned two of his performances are unforgettable.

One was happening in his magic world tour in Las Vegas. “Las Vegas is my dream place to have performance. My idol, David Copperfield, was there too. My show was at The Cosmopolitan Hotel, and it was exciting that you can see Celine Dion concert is opposite to you, and Britney Spears concert is next to your place too. It is amazing and feels sense of success that you can do a show with them at the same time.”

The second is being a performance guest in the Chinese New Year Eve television show(春晚) in mainland. “You may imagine that behind the camera there is about 4 billion audience watching your live magic show. You need to prepare well and do it carefully to avoid any mistake or goofs that can destory your career.”

The program began with 2012 National President Senator Stanley Ng exploring trainer's style with 38 mentees online. Mentors and mentees were engaged with a chat to know more about themselves before taking up the training role.

What followed was an inspiring sharing by 2012 JCI Lion Rock President Senator Eric Lin to around 80 mentees and LD representatives in Design Makes Perfect! Be the Master of Training Design''. Training needs analysis laid a solid foundation for all mentees.

Understanding the importance of practical presentation skills to beginners, we were delighted to invite 2002 National President Senator Tony Chan and two 2018 TMP mentees from JCI Harbour President Senator Sylvia Lee and JCI Peninsula Irene Leung to have an interactive chit chat and training simulations with existing mentees regarding presentation skills and

A timely event by National Sustainable Development Commission for JCI RISE

NATIONAL SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT COMMISSION

A leader is anyone that has a sphere of influence, whether it's influence over one person or over a million. Happy leaders can nurture a happy team, even in the pandemic era. "Shall We Talk SDG- From Stress to Success: Secrets of Happy Leaders, Happy Team in Challenging Times" was a timely event for us to reset and rethink.

An enjoyable evening with great takeaways

To echo with JCI RISE which strategically focuses on SDG 3, Health and Wellbeing, National Sustainable Development Commission invited Peter Yuen, Managing Director & Head of Investment & Sales, Savills Hong Kong to rethink about challenges and the role of leaders leading the team with a positive mindset amid uncertainties on 18 May 2021. Around 40 participants registered for the event online and offline, with great takeaways from Peter's philosophy of being a happy leader.

The event ended with an inspiring reflection for us to contemplate steps we can take in addressing challenges, when Peter highlighted a photo with the virus. While we are focusing on the virus, the white space presents the bright side. It's our view that changes our environment. Special thanks to Emcee Yvonne Lo, Vice Chairmen Boris Cheung, Bryan Cheung, Ervin So and Jason Li for the fruitful event, under the support of NEVP Senator Naomi Chan and Chairman Natalie Yun.

The outbreak of Covid- 19 has become a severe shock to the worldwide business environment, especially to tourism. Traffic is deeply affected. Business is paralyzed, hence cash flow drops greatly. Investing in new business drivers becomes crucial for a company's survival. Without new income source, surrender is inevitable.

JCI Island held May MFG with the presence of Mr. Yiu Si Wing, BBS, and Mr. Steve Huen Kwok Chuen. Both are key influencers of tourism industry. They touched on various topics including debt crisis of Ocean Park, business transformation, operation reform, brand launch and marketing strategies.

The best investment for our future

Invest – a word that leads to expectation, prediction and also assumption. We believe investing in mothers' wellness, leading to a brighter future. According to statistics, there is a more than 20% drop for mothers who have children between 0-15 years old. Working mothers have been facing enormous pressure stemming from "double shift" since Covid-19. They scaled back or even sacrificed their career.

Care and Dare 2021 – "Stand by Moms, Always" is our brand-new flagship program that aims to educate the public about the consequences of women leaving the workforce and encourage the business sector to pledge for creating a caring, loving and supportive environment for working mothers.

We hope by investing resources in mothers, we could RETAIN mothers' participation at work; RE-ENERGISE mothers from high stress levels and help mothers to REDISCOVER passion on personal development and contribute Hong Kong's dynamic workforce.

Extraordinary Branding Awards - Invest in tomorrow, Support Today!
In 2021, COVID-19 is still a serious threat to public health and this pandemic has changed human behaviour in many ways. In order to keep social distancing and avoid catching the disease, a large number of people experienced their first online shopping after the pandemic has started, and since then quite some of their shopping habits have turned to different online platforms. As the history of online shopping is relatively short, there is a chance for criminals to take advantage of the relatively lax regulations and online shopping scams happen from time to time.

JCI Sha Tin will host a flagship project E-shop Rocks & Knows to boost public confidence in online shopping, to reduce the number of online frauds and to raise the public's awareness and knowledge of choosing a secure and regulated platform.
