Editors' Messages

More than one billion people in the world live with some form of disability, according to WHO. In Hong Kong people with disabilities make up 7.4 per cent (499,400) of the overall population. In the years ahead, disability will be an even greater concern because its prevalence is on the rise. This is due to ageing population and the higher risk of disability among older people as well as the increase in chronic health conditions such as diabetes, cardiovascular disease, cancer and mental health disorders.

Many living with disabilities are often seen as incapable, however, this is not the case. There is opportunity for everyone. It is important that they are encouraged and given the chance to fulfill their potential, just like anyone else. People shall be defined by their ability, not disability. So this issue of Harbour Lights we dedicate to the Empowerment of People with Disabilities. We interviewed Mr Benny Cheung, who despite losing his leg empowered himself and became one of the role models on how people with disabilities can live fulfilling life, being active members of the society and maximize their potential.

MESSAGE FROM NATIONAL PRESIDENT

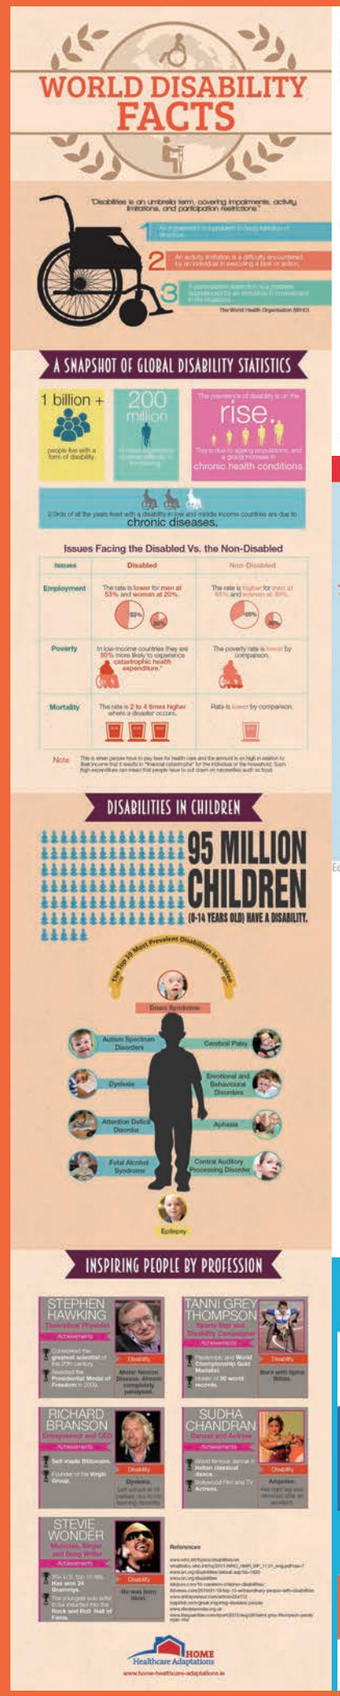

BeBetter - the motto of JCI. What have we been doing to make others' lives better? JCI Hong Kong launched WE UNITE for a BETTER WORLD back in 2009 and this year we recognised around 100 companies, schools and NGOs implementing the UN Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). On 15 September 2018, we echoed with the World Cleanup Day, supported by JCI worldwide and JCI Hong Kong, to organise a territory-wide beach cleanup that day. We hope to take part in building a better and sustainable world.

Some of us are less fortunate as they face difficulties in everyday life due to restricted abilities. There is a difference between respecting them and supporting them. The former involves refraining from infringing their human rights so they live with dignity. The latter requires voluntary action to give them assistance so they could gain respect from others by making achievements that were not considered possible. Thanks to modern-day innovation, we see them overcoming everyday difficulties. For example, they don't have to be physically present to make purchases or go through transactions because of the help of AI technology. More time can then be spent on what they are good at that can bring positive change to society.

I was given the opportunity to represent JCI Hong Kong to join the China delegation of the 10th UN Global Compact China-Japan-Korea Roundtable Conference in the end of August as a panelist for the the topic Industrial Revolution 4.0 (consisting of AI, Blockchain, Big Data, Cloud, Internet of Things and Mobile) and the SDGs. I shared the view that as companies compete on technology instead of manpower, in order to succeed, companies will focus on Creating Shared Value - how to use their existing technology to implement the SDGs at no or low costs. Many consumers prefer benevolent companies. At the end of the day, the SDGs will be on everyone's agenda to ensure that no one is left behind no matter how restricted our abilities are.

Innovation empowers all people and will eventually change destinies. Embrace the transition that will overwhelm us before we are even ready for it. BeBetter!

Senator Ronald Kan

A NEW PERSPECTIVE ON DISABILITY

Benny Cheung has got many achievements and recognitions in his life, including World's Ten Most Outstanding Young People of 1998 and was awarded the Bronze Bauhinia Stars under Hong Kong Honors System. He was also a former Assistant Divisional Officer of Hong Kong Fire Services Department. Just considering these achievements, I would hardly associate him with a disabled person. When I met him for the interview, we exchanged the standard greetings and I explained Mr Cheung about the plan. But only after asking first question I realized I was talking with a person that has an impairment.

How did you feel when doctor advised you to cut off a leg due to infection?

This is the most sensitive question in the interview, but Mr Cheung answered it without a hesitation. At first, he described the events that led to his leg infection. It begun during a rescue mission during a typhoon. He was in a constant fever after the leg injury. Several surgeries were done, and some of them required anaesthesia. Yet he could not recover and get better. Then doctor advised to cut the leg in order to save his life. And Benny agreed. After the operation, he experienced a period of turmoil. Mr Cheung worked exceptionally hard during rehabilitation treatment, so he could get back to work as soon as possible. When it was confirmed that he was able to get back to work in the Fire Department, it was the greatest relief for him.

What would you say to someone who undergoes rehabilitation?

While there are many things you can say to someone whom are under the rehabilitation, but according to Mr Cheung, he felt that telling them that they aren't alone would be the most comforting. He also mentioned that he was blessed that his family had given him much support throughout his life and could not imagine what it would be like without them. However, he did emphasize that the best mindset to have when trying to move on from a difficult situation is to stay positive to tackle the task ahead. Mr Cheung strongly recommends to keep positive mindset for those who are undergoing rehabilitation.

What attitude should you have when you face someone with disability, you want to help them, but at the same time does not want to tamper with their self esteem?

Mr Cheung cracked up when he heard the question. He replied that if you are genuine about helping someone, most of the time, the other side will feel it. As such, suggested to help the person as if you would help anyone. When a follow up question was asked whether those whom were born disabled compared with those whom were disabled due to unfortunate incidents, he replied that those whom were not born disabled would require additional care.

You served as an Assistant Divisional Officer of Hong Kong Fire Services Department. Did you dream to become a fireman as a child? How did you become a fireman?

Mr Cheung replied that he had always been athletic and he loved being in outdoors. When it was about time to graduate from secondary school, he simply wanted to look for a job that would suit him. When he knew that the Hong Kong Fire Services Department was hiring, he figured out that the role of a fireman was a good fit for him. As such, he got into the Hong Kong Fire Services Department to serve as a fireman.

You have been awarded four Gold medals for fencing in the Paralympics. How did you get into fencing?

Mr Cheung did not started fencing before the incident. He said that he had tried swimming, table tennis, martial arts and even marksmanship before fencing. His friend recommended it and soon afterwards it became a casual hobby.

When did you get serious about participation in the Paralympics?

Mr Cheung explained that it was a natural progression. At first, Benny joined fencing competitions for casual purposes and he was ranked near the bottom of the pack. As days went by, the rankings improved where it had gotten to the point where Mr Cheung was consistently ranked in the leading pack. Soon he was approached and invited to join more advanced training. That eventually led to the Paralympics. He continued to say that opportunities and achievements aren't often something that you can get by yourself, but it is often given to you by someone else.

What advice will you give to young people whom are aiming to advance their career in sport?

Mr Cheung emphasized that passion for the sport comes first. Second, he mentioned that to get ahead of the game, you need to know every aspect of the game including the preparation of the gears to the maintenance of it. He recalled far too often that he observed that in general, athletes relied too much on help in the pregame preparation and the preparation of the gear. This resulted in lacking in knowledge that might have given them an edge during the game time.

How suitable is Hong Kong infrastructure for people with disabilities nowadays compared with 20 years ago? How can we do better?

Mr Cheung gave an example how 20 years ago MTR staff would show resentment towards people with disabilities. Nowadays, it became the most used transportation mode and a lot of support is being given to facilitate the comfortable commute. In the past 20 years Hong Kong definitely has made a great progress in catering to the needs of people with disabilities. Compared with other countries in South-East Asia that Mr Cheung visited, Hong Kong is doing well. For the improvement aspects, he would recommend taking Japan as a reference.

2018 JCI GLOBAL PARTNERSHIP SUMMIT

Since January, JCI Hong Kong has been promoting to its members the 4-day conference that takes place annually in July in New York City. Delegates from all over the world gather to share their perspectives, efforts and progresses on the Global Goals. Milestones will also be set for JCI members to achieve and create positive change. Gender Equality (Global Goal Number 5) is the theme this year for the conference, in which sixteen delegates from Hong Kong participated.

During the opening keynote, Trinidadian singer/songwriter/actress Tennille Amor shared valuable experience on her journey on gender equality and female empowerment. Our delegates also participated in workshops where members shared efforts taken by their National Organization and Local Chapter to achieve gender equality. Global Goals related-projects by JCI Hong Kong and its affiliated chapters, as well as the SupportBetterWorld.org youth development platform, were promoted.

In between the conference meetings, besides touring the city, our delegates also visited with other JCI delegates including a local homeless shelter in the Bronx borough of New York City. They exchanged opinions on governmental efforts in their communities to address homeless issues, and whether gender equality played a role.

The last day of the conference took place within the assembly halls of the United Nations Headquarters, where JCI delegates gathered to share findings and plan of action in tackling gender equality problems. During the assembly, National President Senator Ronald Kan has introduced efforts made by JCI Hong Kong and the affiliated chapters in achieving the Global Goals targets. Some members including JCI Hong Kong delegates pledged to take lead in our communities to tackle gender equality issues.

After the United Nations Headquarters visit, JCI Hong Kong has arranged a corporate visit to the Hewlett Packard Enterprise Customer Experience Center, where our delegates were introduced to technological solutions that are currently helping to advance the healthcare (Goal 3 - Good Health and Well-Being), automotive (Goal 7 - Affordable and Clean Energy) as well as the agricultural (Goal 15 - Life on Land) industries.

Hong Kong Global Geopark of China Sai Kung Volcanic Rock Region 地質公園樂悠遊

On a sunny day in the midst of summer, NAC held its first ever sightseeing tour “地質公園樂悠遊” to the world-known "Hong Kong Global Geopark of China Sai Kung Volcanic Rock Region". Over 40 participants enjoyed the whole day outdoor adventure, delicious seafood lunch, onboard games and knowledge quiz with lots of smiles and laughters.

We crossed the Sai Kung Sea by the tombolo, a stone path connecting the Kiu Tau islet that is only visible during low tides. We toured by Sharp Island which is characterised by the many spectacular pineapple bun-shaped stones. We had also visited a Catholic chapel at Yim Tin Tsai called "St. Joseph’s Chapel", which was inaugurated and blessed in 1890. It was listed as Grade 3 Historic Building by the Hong Kong Antiquities Advisory Board in 1990 and then further upgraded to Grade 2 in 2011. Subsequently it was given the Award of Merit by the UNESCO Asia-Pacific Heritage Award for Cultural Heritage Conservation in 2005. The scenery is picturesque and is indeed a paradise for photographers and nature lovers.

We all thanked the time and effort contributed by the NAC Chairman Senator Andy Ma, Advisor PC Senator Jacky Chan, Chairlady Kitty Yiu, the OC Team and helpers to make the day beautiful and memorable.
