Message From A. de O. Sales

It is traditional that Jaycees the world over honour the distinguished achievement of young persons. In Hong Kong public recognition has been given each year to young and dedicated persons whose work is beneficial to the community in a special way. To single them out is right and proper: as it is intended not only to extol excellence but also to encourage others to follow suit in the service of the community.

Congratulations are due to the Kowloon Jaycees for carrying out this project on behalf of the Hong Kong Junior Chamber while all join in applauding the 1980 selection of Six Outstanding Young Persons.

MAJOR TANG
NATIONAL PRESIDENT

December 1980

M E S S A G E

On behalf of all Kowloon Jaycees, I send my heartiest congratulations to the awardees of 1980 Ten Outstanding Young Persons Selection.

The TOYP Selection aims at giving communal recognition to those young people who have attained exceptional achievements in their profession or career while making outstanding contributions to the welfare of our community. The fact that Kowloon Jaycees are organising for the 7th time this annual project of Hong Kong Junior Chamber of Commerce indicates our firm belief in the worthiness of the project. It is our wish that the recognition of our outstanding young people would produce a catalytic effect of encouraging other young people to make endeavours in building an even better society in Hong Kong.

Without the support and contributions from the sponsors, selection consultants, advisors and the panel of judges, the ideal purpose of the TOYP Selection could not be achieved. They certainly deserve our sincere thanks for their efforts to make the project a success.

Message From East Kowloon Jaycees President

There must be a recognition to those people who have contributed a lot to their own career and to the community where we are living.

The example of their hard working is a lead to the young people in Hong Kong to care about their own career as well as the community.

In order to make the recognition of the above, the Hong Kong Junior Chamber of Commerce has for the past years to organize the Ten Outstanding Young Persons Selection through one of the eldest chapter in Hong Kong, that is Kowloon Jaycees.

Well done and congratulations to Kowloon Jaycees and their organizing committee members.

1980 TOYP Awardees

MR. CHEN KWAN YIN, EDWARD

A Senior Lecturer in Economics at the University of Hong Kong, Mr. Chen is a popular speaker on current affairs. His knowledge and firm grasp of the local economic situation have made him a favourite person to be invited by various mass media to comment on current issues. His profound knowledge in economics is well illustrated by his academic achievements. He was promoted to Senior Lecturer at the early age of 33 and is now the Director of the Centre of Asian Studies of HK University, where he graduated. By hisnuimerous publications, lectures and overseas fellowship, Mr. Chen has achieved an international reputation in the field of development economics.

His service to community, however, is not restricted to economics alone. He has held a large number of important public appointments and has been invited to sit on various committees, not necessarily related to his academnic distinction. The current ones include the Action on Rents Committee, the HK Federation of Youth Groups, the HK Boys' and Girls' Club Association, etc. He is also a Lay Assessor in Magistrates Courts.

As a local bourn and educated young person with great academnic achievement and a keen devotion in community service and thoroughness in all jobs he has undertaken, Mr. Chen is awarded as an Outstanding Young Person in 1980.

MISS CHEUNG MAN YEE

Miss Cheung is a well know T.V. producer who probably needs no further introduction. She began her television career 12 years ago and had had various jobs before or behind the cameras as most successful TV personalities have. Yet it is Miss Cheung's difference with most other TV personalities that deserves nomination. With the budgetary and equipment limitations of the Government TV Station, Miss Cheung has still managed to prodce programmes with the highest audience rating and standard in Hong Kong. This is achieved not through the current popular commercial programmes of sex, violence and other immoral messages, but through seriously produced healthy, highly educational yet entertaining programmes. To this she is most keen and dedicated. Her success is demonstrated by the highest audience ratings and the high regard by her own professionals.

Her achievements are by no means local. The three international awards she has won are also the first such awards ever presented to locally produced programmes.

Miss Cheung also sits on the Advisory Committee of Family Planning Association, and some other committees on social services. Her attitude of thorough dedication and her noble motivation rightly deserves the award.

MR. LAM SAI KONG, PAUL

Mr. Lam has proved to be outstanding in several areas of his endeavour, as a manager in the insurance business and in scouting. Mr. Lam has chosen insurance as his career after several attempts in other fields. He marked off his entrance to the trade as winner of the Hong Kong Insurers Club prize in 1974. He was then actively involved in his professional institution and during his chairmanship of the education subcommittee of the institution, he arranged to take over the running of the part-time day release course of the professional examination of insurance in Hong Kong Polytechnic. He also took participate in giving part-time lectures on insurance run by the various institutions.

But it is in Scout Movement that Mr. Lam's outstanding achievements is most vividly revealed. Despite of and apart from his heavy commitments in his business and his profession, Mr. Lam has sacrificed much of his leisure time in taking part in scout training and promotion eversince 1970. With his significant contributions in scout training he has been assigned since 1978 to Public Relations and promotion of scouting. Through his efforts, a programme for scouting promotion is out on TV and has received much publicity.

Mr. Lam also sits as advisor on several youth activities committees.

MR. TSIM TAK LUNG

Mr. Tsim is a graduate of the University of Hong Kong and has a second degree in England. He joined the BBC in 1972 and thus entered the journalists' world. He was also an editor of the local television news and commetary programmes and often expressed very unique and sensible viewpoints.

Mr. Tsim's "One Man's View" column in the South China Morning Post has articulated his views of public issues with strong conviction, and has stimulated interest and discussion unmatched in local journalism. His column covers an impressive range of topics from capital punishment to homosexuality, and in each and every subject provides illuminating insight into complicated issues. His impact is also felt by Chinese readers, as his articles appear on leading Chinese newspaers too.

His book "The State of the Chinese Theatre in HK" is a masterpiece on the study of subject. However, Mr. Tsim's main occupation is not an observer and journalist. He is the Assistant Director of the HKTDC; himself an expert on trading with Japan; promoting a major revenue source of Hong Kong. Mr. Tsim is also an active participant in Hong Kong's public life. He is a Lay Assessor and member of various important advisory bodeis, including one to the ICAC. His voluntary involvement in the activities of the University of Hong Kong, where he graduated, enables him to offer his views on University education, and possibly further influence on the younger generation.

MISS WOO SHUK SING, BETTY

Miss Woo is now the co-ordinator of three large day care nurserys and chairs several Nursery and Child care committees. Through her dedication and innovation, Miss Woo has made very significant contributions towards the advancement of child care in Hong Kong.

Miss Woo was one of the few pioneers in the voluntary sector who accepted the government's request for integrating the physically, mentally and emotionally handicapped into ordinary nurseries. This innovation encountered tremendous objection, and it is only through Miss Woo's efforts that such nurseries became the model nurseries of today. This break through not only opened up a totally new era in child care, but also marked a significant personal achievement for Miss Woo.

The formation of the Child Care Workers Association was also attributable to Miss Woo's efforts. The association today provides a useful chanel for the exchange of experience in this field, and has raised the professional standards of child care.

Miss Woo's active involvement with the Government, the HK Council of Social Services and other committees has enabled her to make a significant impact on the present and future government policy in regard to child care services; an area that can still be much developed. Her success is one of hard-work and ideal.

Mr. Richard Lai

Mr. Lai's success is due totally to his hard work and dedication to his job. He was given the opportunity in 1974 to get up a completely new spinning factory in Hong Kong. His initiative in the "open-end" spinning method has advanced the local textile community as this method proved to be very economical in terms of floor space and labour costs. Since then, Mr. Lai was in charge of the factory which was turned into a successful and profitable operation.

Mr. Lai has also gained recognition by the Textile Institute, the Institute of Industrial Managers and the British Institute of Management through his achievement in the textile and industrial management. Besides, he is also actively involved in many local civic and professional organisations.

HOW JAYCEES BEGAN, GREW AND BECAME INTERNATIONAL

IT BEGAN . . . .

In 1915 when the thought of utilizing the young man-power of a community for public service came forcibly to a young man who conceived the Jaycee ideal, Henry Giessenbier.

The idea met with immediate response and on 13th October, 1915, at the Mission Inn, in St. Louis, an organization called "Young Men's Progressive Civic Association" was found, whose name became "Junior Citizens" until 1916.

After two years activity under that name, the local Chamber of Commerce gave its blessing to the movement and its name was changed to Junior Chamber of Commerce. Henry Giessenbier was elected President and Andrew G. Mungenast Secretary.

A caucus was held on 21st January, 1920, in St. Louis, at which 24 cities were represented. It was decided to organize the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce and held a convention in St. Louis in June to perfect a permanant organization.

In the United States, and it was also developing in other countries. By 1926, both England and Canada had chambers, and enquiries were being made from such distant countries as New Zealand and South Africa.

By 1933, Junior Chamber had grown to 158 units in the U.S.A., 16 in Canada, 14 in England, and one each in Australia, Colombia, Mexico, New Zealand and South Africa.

The year 1942 was a year in which hundreds of millions of men and women, and most of the nations of the world, were engaged in a war of unparalled destruction and tragedy. Yet within Junior Chamber individual actions were being taken which, while small in themselves, were a significant sign of the desire to achieve in the future a better understanding and relationship between men and nations.

In this year, the young leaders of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce change their bylaws to offer a seat on their National Executive Committee to President of the Canada Junior Chamber. In the same spirit, they passed a further resolution to sponsor the creation of Junior Chamber in Central and South America.

IT BECAME INTERNATIONAL . . . .

In early 1943 when two Junior Chamber members, Allyn Taylor, Canada, and Vance Graham, U.S.A., undertook an extensive tour in South America and formed Junior Chambers in Mexico, Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Costa Rica, Panama and Nicaragua. Later that year the International Relations Committee Chairman of the United States Junior Chamber, Ray Wolff, visited the same countries and, through his efforts, plans were made for an inter-American Congress to take place in Mexico City in December 1944.

This Congress, which began on 7th December, was attended by 36 delegates from nine nations. Four days later, on 11th December, 1944, Junior Chamber International was born. Raul G. Vidal, of Mexico, was elected at this meeting as the first JCI President.

The first formally constituted JCI Congress followed in February, 1946 in Panama City, Panama, six months after the termination of World War II. Delegates and observers attended from Argentina, Brazil, Costa Rica, Chile, Ecuador, U.S.A. Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Mexico, Panama, Peru, and Uruguay.

Today, over 600,000 young men and women in some 84 countries share the same ideals and principles and constitute the largest organization of young men in the world.

IN HONG KONG . . . .

Jaycee Movement was introduced in 1950 by a group of enthusiastic young men who were inspired by the work of the Jaycees operating in other parts of the world certainly benefit the young people of Hong Kong and the community at large.

It began with the establishment of the Hong Kong Junior Chamber of Commerce, in 1950. Its continued expansion and growth gives rise to the present development whereby there are eleven chapters in Hong Kong, listed as follows:—

CHAMPION

The Concorde Supersonic Jet Is Equipped With Champion Igniter Plugs

The Champion Spark Plug Company is the leading supplier of spark plugs and igniters to the aircraft industry. Champion entered the aviation business in the early days when most aircraft engines were using automotive type spark plugs.

Champion maintains a major share of the aircraft business by continuing to develop new designs to meet the needs of industry.

The confidence Concorde designers have placed in Champion turbine igniters is further proof of Champion's advanced technology — a technology which is already recognized by automobile manufacturers and motorists around the world.

Enjoy the best of China without leaving Hong Kong

Nowhere else in Hong Kong will you find such a range of services and elegant atmosphere in the finest Oriental tradition....

The Imperial Suite and the spectacular Chinese Theatre Restaurant form a stunning contrast to the European Coffee Terrace, international restaurants, exciting shopping complex and the most up-to-date convention facilities in Hong Kong.

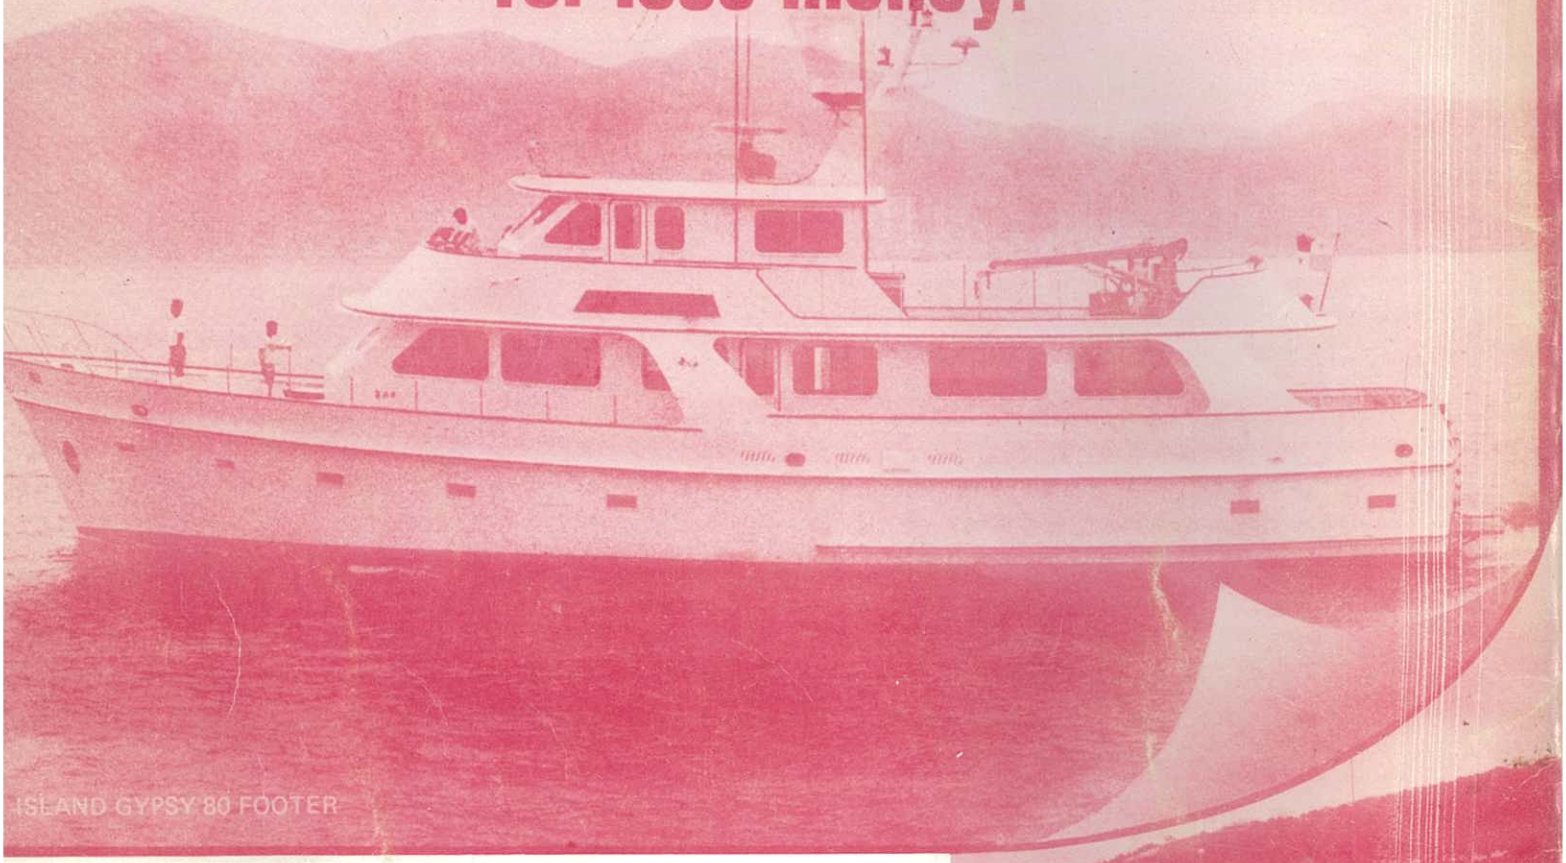

Stay awhile with us at the Miramar. You'll find it a unique experience, just like seeing a miniature China.
